History

I don't remember the weather on that September day in 1950 when we all started to school for the first time, but it must have been beautiful. Anyway we were all thrust into a strange new world in which we would remain for twelve years. The year marked the halfway point of the twentieth century, and the Korean War was about to start, but did we notice? Not we! Whether we started at Carrsville, Windsor, or Isle of Wight our only thoughts were of going to school at last.

Of course some of us were a little homesick at first, but that soon passed when we began to read, print and spell. Art period was a lot of fun and recess was even better. We even learned such practical things as how to tie our shoes.

The following year most of us moved into the second grade and felt we were really rising in the world. Here we first learned to write, and we got into higher mathematics--subtracting.

We passed through the third grade uneventfully, for we were old hands at going to school by now. Then came the fourth grade, where for the first but not the last time, we met things known as exams. We dreaded the thought of having them all the way through school, but somehow we faced and passed them.

The years passed swiftly now in a whirl of May Days, class trips, and exams until the seventh grade. Now we were really getting somewhere, for the seventh grade was junior high school. At the close of that year we received our certificates--our passports into the wonderful world of high school.

At Carrsville and Isle of Wight the eighth grade was an especially happy one, for we were the oldest group there--the "Seniors". Only a few of us looked ahead to the next year when we would be lowly freshmen at Windsor. Even though we hated for that year to pass, we will always remember our so-called "graduation".

Those of us at Windsor also had a very exciting eighth grade year. We moved into the high school building and began to experience a new phenomenon--class changing. Now that we were more sophisticated and grown up, we could view with tolerance the antics of the children in the grade school building.

At last the big day came and three grades merged into one ninth grade (in two home rooms because of our size) at Windsor High School. It was like starting to school all over again, meeting new friends in new surroundings. By the time the year ended we were a united class and had a class picnic at the Franklin Swimming Pool. As usual it was a huge success.

We were glad to move up the totem pole as Sophomores with someone under us to boss. The big event that year was Homecoming and, of course, the tenth grade was in the thick of things. Though our float didn't win first prize, we had a lot of fun building it in the fire house and riding on it.

Also in the tenth grade some of our students began to branch out into extra-curricular activities, such as sports and forensics. Once again we didn't bring home a winner, but the experience was good for us.

Again the class celebrated the end of the school year with a picnic--this time to Ocean View. Those of us who went really enjoyed it.

Now we were Juniors with some of the trappings of royalty--the Junior play and the Junior field trip. Our play was a three act comedy entitled LET ME OUT OF HERE, and of course it brought down the house. We hated to end play practice though, and really missed the "Tarzan Rope".

Our field trip took us to Jamestown, Yorktown, and Williamsburg and was highlighted (?) by a gallant charge some of our boys made on the battlefield of Yorktown. Lord Cornwallis may have turned over in his grave, but we didn't care!

Other events of our Junior year no less important were the arrival of our class rings (upturned hands), the Junior Newspaper (ink smudged hands), and of course the most beautiful Junior-Senior Prom ever (hands clasped in dancing). The theme of the prom was "Southern Serenity".

Then came September 1961 and we were Seniors, though we could hardly believe it. As soon as we returned to the usual routine, it was time to think of the Senior Play and the problems of getting out an annual. To accomodate the large size of our class we put on four one act plays, and once more they were successful. Play practice was also very enjoyable.

The annual staff started work during the summer and has been meeting dead lines ever since. We hope and expect the 1962 DUKE to be the best ever.

Now the year is almost over and our school days are ending. But it has been a lot of fun. Of course all of us that started didn't make it, but most of us did. The ones that remain are a united Senior Class--the largest in the history of the school and, we think, the best.

Last Will And Testament

Lillie Belle Munford and Jo Ann Byrum leave Dot Glover their sincere best wishes for a happy and satisfying senior year.

Barbara Boyette and Polly Hedgepeth leave to Joyce Griggs their ability to graduate.

Shirley Jones leaves Marie Stephenson her desk in English class in the hope that it will help her in English.

Bing Olson leaves Billy Martin his basketball uniform, but includes this warning: Refrain from sitting as the seat is worn out!

George Pulley leaves Bobby Cofield his ability to play football and hopes that he will keep number 33 out of trouble.

Betty Jane Gardner leaves Mary Elizabeth Gardner her ringstand in hopes she will get a big bang out of chemistry.

Fred Underwood leaves Jerry Phillips his grades in Mr. Hall's class and hopes he can improve them (but he doubts if he can).

Virginia Everett leaves to Jethro Darden the memories they have shared during the last four years in high school.

Jimmie Whitley leaves to Dennis Whitley his old girl friends in hopes he has nerve to ask them for dates.

Bobby Story leaves to Roger Butler a pencil and three sheets of notebook paper to get his lessons with next year, knowing this will be a sufficient amount, as he will probably lose the pencil and make airplanes of the paper.

Nancy Beale leaves to Mary Ellen Crocker her interest in the Teenage Clubs on Saturday nights, in hopes Mary Ellen will have as much fun at them as she has had in the past few years.

Willie Wayne Chapman leaves to Davis Lee Wells his seat in 12A in hopes that he will make better use of it.

Sylvia Francis leaves Dean Blythe twelve square feet of her front lawn in case he ever again needs a grass skirt.

Frankie Brown leaves Tommy Robinson his alarm clock in hopes that he can get to school on time.

Lloyd Duck leaves to Bill Bradshaw his trombone playing ability!

Becky Umphlett and Jean Vaughan leave Judy Vassar her first cup and saucer for her hope chest.

Connie Spivey leaves to Janice Whitley her seat on bus 33 in hopes she has as much fun but not as much trouble as she had.

Gloria Howell and Billy Wolfe leave to Frank Parrish and Jim Harrison an automatic grocery cart to keep them from wearing out the soles of their shoes on Saturdays at the A & P.

Pete Aycock leaves to Ken Holcomb an extra can of dextrose vitamins to use during basketball season next year, for he wouldn't have made it this year without them.

Pearl Benson leaves to Brenda Copeland her senior superlative in hopes that she will catch up with her.

Ann Cook Cutchin and Jean Blythe leave to Carole Glover their "knack" of knowing what true friendship means.

Scotty Stephenson leaves George Griffin his ability to break his leg in football and his ability to drive fast, recklessly, and carelessly in Windsor, knowing that he will use it well.

Peggy Johnson and Jackie Redd leave to Betty Holland the fun they've had on the bus going to and from basketball games.

Ike Steele leaves Frances Godwin his pizza pan in hopes that she will find use for it after Youth Fellowship meetings.

Betty Stephenson and Dell Holland leave Carolyn Howell four A's, two B's, and three C's, which she may cash in for their value with any teacher in high school next year.

Joey Brinkley leaves Burnley Carter one of his vests in hopes that he will get better use from it.

Carolyn Hunnings and Mary Katherine Ballard leave to Dianne Francis the responsibility of keeping up the overall disturbance on bus 56 that they started four years ago.

Faye Arrington leaves Jeannie Chapman all of her twelfth grade books in hopes that she can make better use of them. Good luck Jeannie!

Herbert Britt leaves to Wilson Holland his ability to make up his mind to work. He urges Wilson to work, so that someday he may be a member of the Senior Class.

Edward Powell leaves to Brad Swain his love for sports hoping that someday he will use it.

Carol Adams leaves to Peggy Hedgepeth her senior superlative, Most Ambitious, hoping that she will go far with it.

Robert Johnson leaves to Rae Duck his ability to throw shot ten feet. This combined with Rae's thirty feet may mean that he can win a shot contest.

Barbara Tomlin and Gwen Rhodes leave to Carolyn Darden their sincerest wish that a certain little cracker box will be rolling towards Windsor each Sunday night.

Nancy Grissom leaves Bert Marshall her great ability in chemistry to boil water and Boraxo because he desperately needs it.

Linda Blythe and Rodger Plaster leave to Brenda Daniel a creosote sculpture of gorgeous George and all the hard times they had in the Senior Class.

Barbara Walthall and Audrey Howell leave to Larry Hedgepeth and David Lee Bradshaw their seats in the Senior Class and their ability to do as little homework as possible, with the hope that these boys will have as much fun in their senior year as they did.

Robert Allen Holland leaves Junior Luter his ability to get along well with teachers, his sense of good behavior in school, his ability to wander around class and school without being prosecuted, and last but not least his quiet manner of speaking.

Roland Griggs and Herbert Booth leave Marvin Alphin and Billy Harrison their ability to be absent from school.

Glenda Bracey leaves to Becky Cobb her innocent expressions and blond hair while Judy Simmons leaves Becky her "shifty" brown eyes and mischievous ways. With this combination Becky will surely be a mixed-up girl.

Glenn Robertson leaves Stanley Crossland his senior superlative, Most Intellectual.

Larry Whitley just leaves!!!!!!

Class Prophecy

Another day at my New York Office finally had come to a close. Just as I was tidying up my desk for the next day, and watching the clock at the same time, I suddenly heard my name called over the inter-com. I answered, and to my surprise I had a visitor. I asked the visitor to wait in the outer office for me, and when I opened the door, there stood Jean Blythe, now a young married girl with her two adorable boys, whom I might add looked exactly like their father. She and her husband were attending a National Agricultural Convention, of which her husband was chairman. She and the boys went home with me, for Jean and I had a lot of news items to exchange about our Windsor classmates.

The ride to Manhattan Island was quite a treat for the boys, and at my apartment they began to watch TV, which gave Jean and me time to talk.

The first girls I wanted to know about were two with whom she and I had entered the first grade. Barbara Walthall was the first to enter my thoughts. Why, hadn't I heard? She and Frankie Brown were married and she was cashier at the new bank in Windsor. Frankie was supervisor of the Maintenance shop at the Newport News Ship Yard. Scotty Stephenson was also employed in the Newport News Ship Yard. He was foreman of Shop 07, The Electrical Shop. The new Bank was designed by Billy Wolfe, a promising young architect of Richmond. The construction and engineering of the new bank and the other new buildings in Windsor, were by the Aycock and Sons Construction Corp. of Atlanta, Georgia. Yes, Eugene gave up basketball to become an engineer.

Jean asked if I had seen Linda Blythe at the Idlewild Airport. She was top airline hostess with the United Airlines. And guess what? Bobby Story was the outstanding pilot for this same airline. Robert Johnson was test pilot for the new planes of TWA, both top pilots.

I then mentioned to Jean that on a shopping spree the other day I had seen Judy Simmons and Gloria Howell at one of the warehouses buying dresses for their new dress shop in Smithfield of which they were co-owners. Jean then told me Dell Holland had married a young farmer and was living on the outskirts of Zuni, and was secretary at the J. & G. Dress Shop.

Time was really going by fast and Jean and I were only one-third through our reminiscing. After a quick bite to eat we settled down to more of the same.

Since Windsor and Smithfield were soon to become a city, a new college for women was to be erected near by. Lillie Belle Munford was to be the head of the English Department and Nancy Grissom was to be the Professor of Business Administration. Peggy Johnson was the Dean of Women, and also would teach Sociology at the new college. Joey Brinkley, after finishing College at Frederick, was to become Professor of the Science Department, and Lloyd Duck was the Choir and Musical Director. Fred Underwood, now a Professor with a P.H.D., was to be head of the History Department of this outstanding young college.

I then asked Jean about Glenda Bracey. Yes, she and John T. married after Glenda worked for a few years. She was secretary for Jimmie Whitley, who was Trial Justice at the Isle of Wight Court. Jimmie played Pro football for the Washington Redskins while attending law school. Nancy Beale also worked at the Court House. She was the Courtroom Secretary, and was doing a splendid job.

Jean told me that at the new Southampton Hospital, Shirley Jones was Supervisor of Pediatrics and Connie Spivey was night Supervisor of the nursery. Audrey Howell, while waiting for Bing Olson to return from active duty with our Armed Forces in Cuba, was a Laboratory Technician at this same hospital. Betty Jane Gardner was Supervisor of the nurses and really enjoyed her work.

I told Jean about the big show my husband and I attended at Radio City Music Hall, and there we saw Gwen Rhodes, Jackie Redd, Carolyn Hunnings, and Mary K. Ballard. Gwen and Jackie were secretaries at N. B.C. and Carolyn and Mary K. were working in the finance department at Macy's Department Store. They told me that Polly Hedgepeths was also working in New York. She was secretary to Mr. Street, the Vice Chairman of Union-Bag Camp.

Jean told me of the other girls who had followed the business careers they wanted. One was Sylvia Francis, who was secretary to Ike Steele. Ike, after finishing graduate school at Columbia, had opened a combination Drug Store, Snack Bar, and Pharmacy in Windsor. Virginia Everett and Becky Umphlett, after finishing Pan American Business School, worked in the new Windsor Bank. Faye Arrington became secretary to the Dean of Women at the new college, and Betty Stephenson, now married and mother of two girls, worked part time at the Holland & Son Ford Company near Windsor. Robert Allen was the head salesman for his father. Barbara Boyette was personnel manager for the new housing development to be started soon near Windsor. Jean Vaughan, now Mrs. Young, was the rental agent for this development. She and Bobby were residing in one of the new homes and were very happy.

The children were getting a little sleepy and Jean and I knew we had the next day to continue our chit-chat. We decided though, to watch TV before going to bed.

The first program was a tape of the third game of the World Series. The pitcher's face looked rather familiar, and we both said at the same time, "Why that's Frank Carr!" The program was interrupted by a new bulletin. Rodger Plaster had finally consented to run for President on the Independent ticket. His secretary, Pearl Benson, would give the news reporter his platform later.

Early the next morning Jean and I, over our second cup of coffee, started again our conversation about our classmates. Barbara Tomlin had married a young businessman of Suffolk. Roland Griggs was home on leave. He was a Sergeant in the U. S. Army, and stationed at Fort Story. JoAnn Byrun was also home on leave. She joined the Waves, and was stationed at Pensacola, Florida. George R. Pulley was one of the wealthiest farmers in Isle of Wight County. His breed of cattle was the best in the Tidewater Area.

I mentioned to Jean that Larry Whitley was a business executive on Dows Stock Market Exchange. I had seen him only a few days ago. On the same day, I saw Carol Adams. She was leaving to join her husband overseas and while there, she was to study fashion designing under Christine Dior. Look out skirts!

Jean said that the other day, while shopping at the A&P, Willie W. Chapman informed her that he was to be the new manager. She also saw Herbert Boothe at the new Amoco Service Station of which he was owner. My, how those boys have proved themselves!

I then asked her if she had read the article in the National Geographic Magazine, by Glenn Robertson. He was Superintendent of the National Military Parks and had written an interesting article on his work. Herbert Britt was working with Glenn on these Park improvements. Eddie Powell had just received a scholarship, to continue his apprenticeship. He was in school at the Norfolk Naval Ship Yard and was studying ship designing.

Goodness, it was time for Jean and the boys to say goodbye. With tears running down our cheeks, we both decided, it was like being in school again, and the memories of this wonderful class would still linger for years to come.

Ann Cook Cutchin

For almost four years we have attended school within the walls of Windsor High School. By the time we receive our annuals the old building will be no more. We are proud and happy that we are receiving a new school, but we would like to set aside this space in remembrance of this building in which are found fond memories of our high school years.

Alma Mater

Hail to thee, dear Windsor High School,
 Standing strong and true,
 In our lives a place of honor
 We have formed for you.
 All the days of work and pleasure,
 E'er a memory,
 We would ever love and cherish
 All our thoughts of thee,

CHORUS:

Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
 Conquer and prevail,
 Hail! Oh, Hail to thee, Dear Windsor
 You We'll never fail.
